

RIASEC Personality Types

Realistic

- You like to work with your hands. This could mean working with tools, animals, metals, woods, and machines.
- You may shy away from social situations involving teaching, speaking, or informing others.
- Prefers practical things that can be seen or heard.
- You may have a self-view that is practical in nature. You gravitate towards the mechanical.

Investigative

- You like to investigate problems and find solutions. Math and science come naturally to you.
- You probably don't like work involving sales, convincing people, or leading others.
- You put a premium on science and fact-based evidence.
- You may view yourself as scientific. People think of you as the intellectual type.

Artistic

- You gravitate towards creative activities, like music, art, drama, crafts, and writing. Repetitive activities or situations with a high degree of structure are turn-offs.
- Naturally gifted with creative abilities that are used for drawing, writing, music, and acting.
- You may view yourself as independent, expressive, original, and contrarian.

Social

- You naturally gravitate towards helping other people and it has likely been this way for you since childhood.
- Teaching, offering medical assistance, and providing information are all in your wheelhouse. You likely shy away from machines or tools.
- Likely gifted with teaching, counseling or in some way helping others.
- Gifted at helping groups or finding solutions for social challenges.
- People may view you as intuitive, a healer, or even empathic.

Enterprising

- You enjoy persuading people and leading groups or teams. Selling, persuading, and convincing people come natural to you.
- Science and analytical thinking aren't where you live.
- Gifted with motivating people to a place of change.
- Entrepreneurial spirit and a self-starter.
- You may place a premium on leadership skills or business accomplishments.
- You may see yourself as a task-master and the person who gets things done. Great in social situations.

Conventional

- You likely gravitate towards work involving numbers. File management, recordkeeping, and operating machines that organize are in your wheelhouse.
- You aren't a fan of unstructured environments or work that is ambiguous in nature.
- You prefer working with systems that follow an orderly flow.
- You place a premium on success in business.
- People see you as the orderly-type and excellent at following directions.

The above were taken from the website:

RIASEC Test: Understanding Your Career Personality \(guycounseling.com\)